"Right now a lot of kids are most likely saying how much they hate this school, but wait until they have gone, and then see how they miss it . . ."

The new school? It can be beautiful, it can be ugly, it can be anything you want. Because apart from the physical building everything can be changed.

NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL

It was old, decrepit, sometimes dirty and often depressing. But for a year it was a home and we all had to learn to live in it. Some of us had more success than others, but we all developed a kind of affection for the grey and dirty yellow bricks. In many ways it was a part of the past, a bridge to all the previous generations of students who had passed through its halls. We were youth among the ruins of age.

I miss sitting on the voting machines.

It was a hell of a place.

The old school was a mess, run down and battered, but it had class.

Now it is gone and we are the beginning, the first generation of the new Newton North High School. The contrast of the new and old buildings has provided a meaningful experience for us all. The time spent in the old school now seems remote to some, close to others, but regardless, it is a part of our memory of Newton High School.

We have seen shadows of the past and have experienced traces of the future.

Although we are far away from fully utilizing the potential of the new building, our second year in it has brought substantial progress and improvement throughout our entire program.

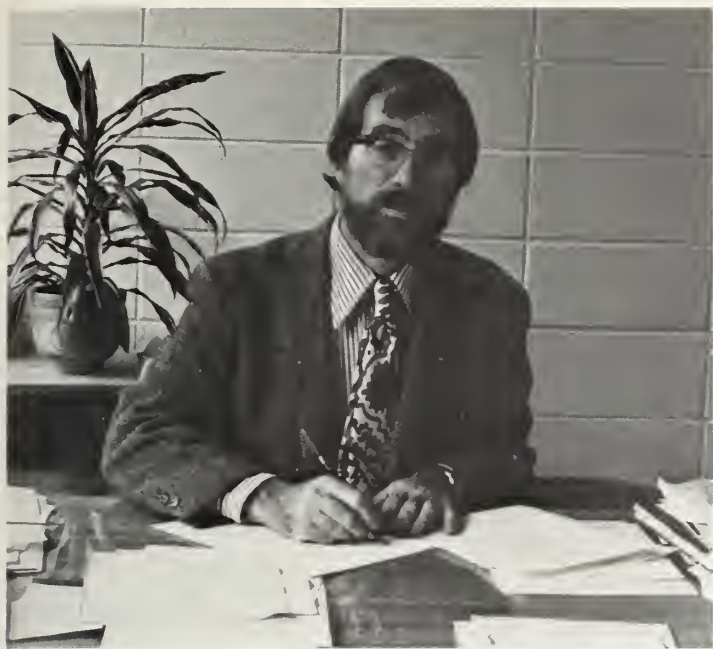

Reflecting a national trend, you were more serious this year about your classroom work and more willing to commit yourselves to the school and its various programs both within and without the classroom than other recent classes have been.

The student mall, which was not completed until this year, attracted many students regularly throughout the day and complemented the concept of Main Street within the building. Increased offerings in Girls Athletics, new courses such as "Transition" and many others enriched what has traditionally been a full and varied program. The continued smoothness of the consolidation of the Technical High School within the comprehensive high school similarly added another dimension to our entire program.

Certainly the members of the Class of 1975 have individually and collectively been responsible for much of the change and improvement that has taken place. You are one of the two classes which has attended school in both the old buildings and the new and consequently your attitudes and contributions were of great significance. We appreciate your help and hope that this experience has been valuable to you.

Good luck to you as you leave Newton North High School for another major change in your lives.

If you've ever walked along the basement floor of N.H.S. you know how easy it is to get lost. However, the sounds floating from the music department will always help you to regain your sense of direction. There are classes all day long ranging from voice training to electronic music. Forever expanding, the music department added a new group this year, the "Sisters and the Brothers."

Mr. Ray Smith, Mr. Gary Good, and Mr. Henry Lasker put in 28 hours a day to offer a diverse educational experience. Aside from a strictly classroom education there is a strong emphasis on performance. There are two major concerts a year which include most of the performing groups; The Family, The Sisters and Brothers, The Concert Choir and The Orchestra put in a lot of time to make Harvestfest and Winterfest a tremendous success. This year these concerts featured highlights such as Burnstein's "MASS", and Mozart's "Vespers."

The vocal groups, band and orchestra participated in exchange trips with schools from other communities. This involved a concert at home and a concert away. The Concert Band performed various times throughout the year. The groups host concerts here and there and bring the year to a climax by singing with the Boston Symphony Orchestra at the Pops Concerts.

The music department is responsible for the two or three performed, as well as the various professional groups which visit the high school. Without a doubt, the music department offers a cultural as well as entertaining education which adds another dimension to N.H.S.

SPORTS

There can be no doubt that sports is the strongest single extra curricular institution in our high school ... Anyone who disputes this fact need only walk down Main Street at two-thirty and count the number of Varsity Jackets ... There is no simple answer though, as to why so many students at Newton High participate in the sports program.

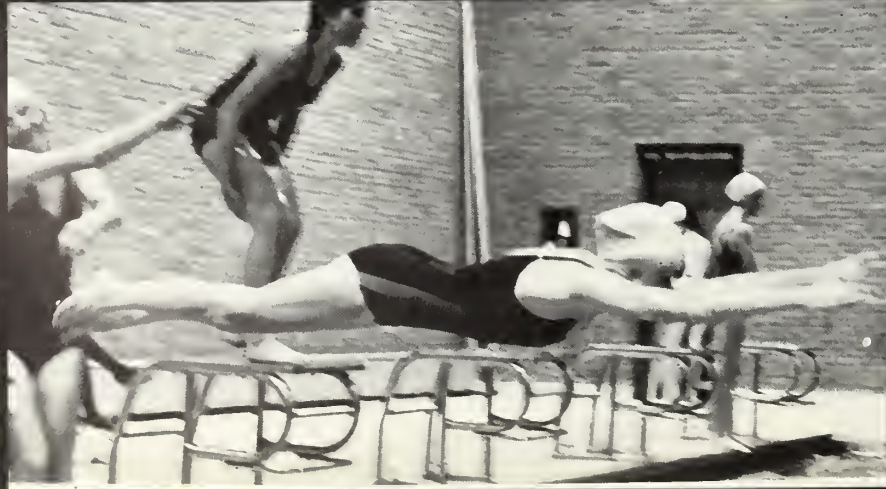

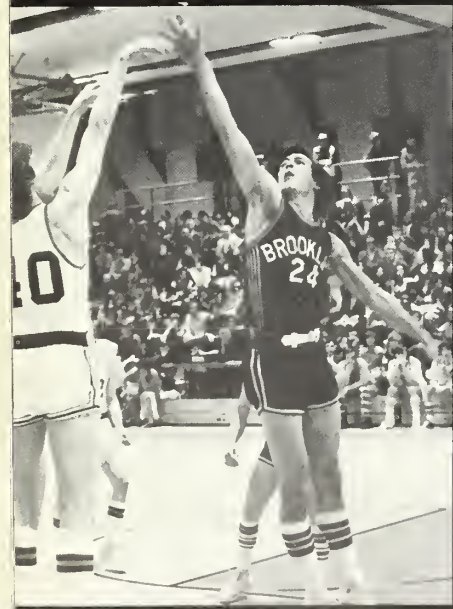

One typical response to this question is that the students wish to be part of a winning tradition. This answer's fine for the aging Tiger alumni, to whom a high school sports program is a Saturday afternoon football game. It is not a satisfactory response, however, to today's student. Despite what the Newtonite sport pages would have one believe, the student athletes are in it for more than just the glory of winning. It would be foolish to think that this years football players felt any less fulfilled than the players of past years, simply because their teams record was below typical Tiger standards.

The coaches have a number of explanations which differ sharply from the alumni's. One is that the students go out for sports to aquire a sense of responsibility toward themselves and their teammates. If this is so, we all know of a frog on Main Street that would say the coaches should do a better job. Be that as it may, the explanation doesn't hold much water, anyway, because the students themselves don't believe it.

Another of the coaches' responses is that the student athletes are simply proud to represent their High School. But school spirit abounds primarily in the cheering sections. The emotion on the field is usually more of a team oriented spirit. This team spirit can explain why an athlete would perform to his utmost capabilities, once he is on the team. It does no explain, however, why the athlete would join the team in the first place.

One way to go about answering the question would be to ask the athletes themselves. The most common response — (ruling out the varsity jacket as a motive) would probably be that they go out for sports simply to have fun. This would be an acceptable explanation, but it loses credibility when the same athletes start complaining five minutes later about the inhumane workouts.

It would appear that there is no single logical explanation as to why the sports program has such a strong student participation at Newton High. Perhaps the fact that there is no visible concrete attraction is one of the factors that makes it appealing. Or maybe the true inner motive that drives all jocks to the locker room at two-thirty is a burning desire to find a candid picture of himself in the sports section of the Newtonian.

FOOTBALL

True, the Football team's 5-5 record would be termed a disaster when judging by typical Newton North standards. There were many bright points in the season, though, that should not be overlooked.

Early in the season Newton faced two tough opponents — Framingham North and Medford — and defeated them both by a combined point total of 36-0. At that point, the Tigers appeared to have one of the most potent passing attacks in the state. The Kinsslla-to-Foley pass combination seemed destined for a place in the record books. But the high hopes faded as the team dropped their next two games, and regained their early momentum.

A home game against a tough Boston Latin club was perhaps the Tigers' best effort of the season. Senior fullback Peter Toyias rushed for an incredible 189 yards to lead the team to an impressive victory. Sophomore running back Mario Luchetti was also a standout on offense, gaining 78 yards on only four carries.

After two disappointing losses to Weymouth North and Waltham, Newton carried a 5-4 record into Thanksgiving Day Classic against Brookline. Pre-game controversies were set aside as the team set its collective sights on finishing the season with a better than .500 record.

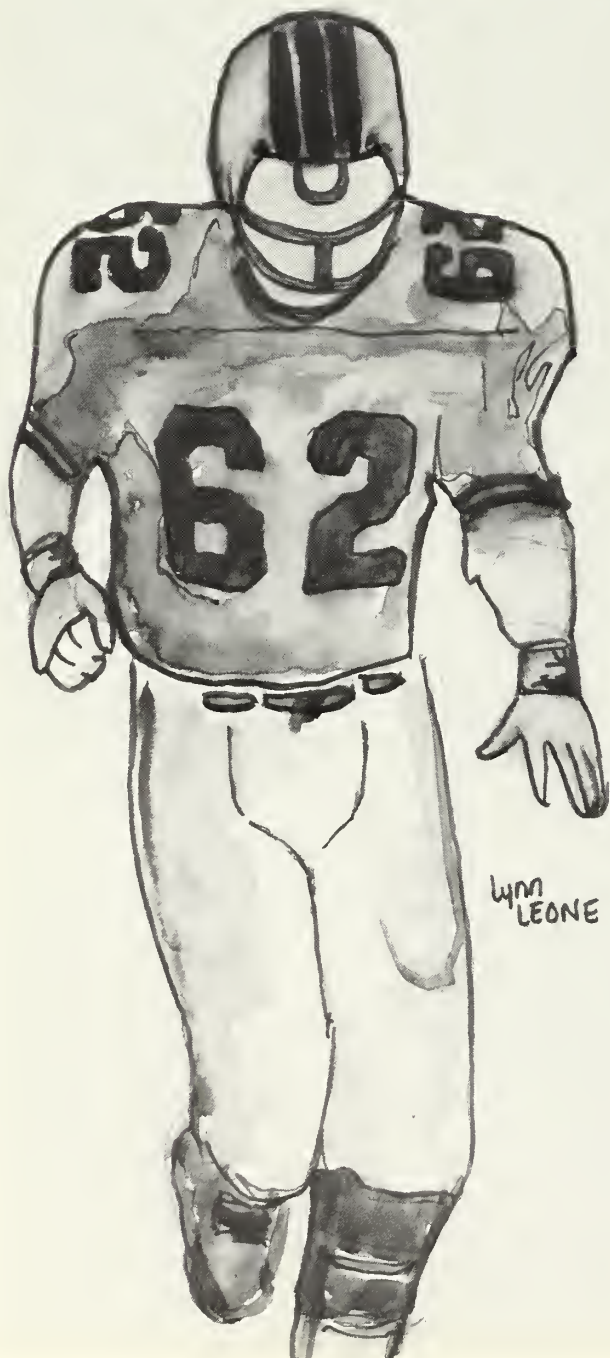

The traditional season finale lived up to all the expectations of the excited crowd. Brookline opened the scoring with a second period touchdown, and held a 7-0 lead until late in the fourth quarter. The determined Tigers then drove for touchdown in the final minutes, leaving the game tied at the end of regulation time. A new tie-breaker rule went into effect, giving each team four downs to score from the opponent's ten-yard line. The process was to be repeated until a winner emerged.

As it turned out, no repetitions were necessary. Brookline scored on their first offensive play. Newton's offense could put nothing together and was held. It was a heartbreaking loss for the team — especially those who would never suit up in a Tiger uniform again.

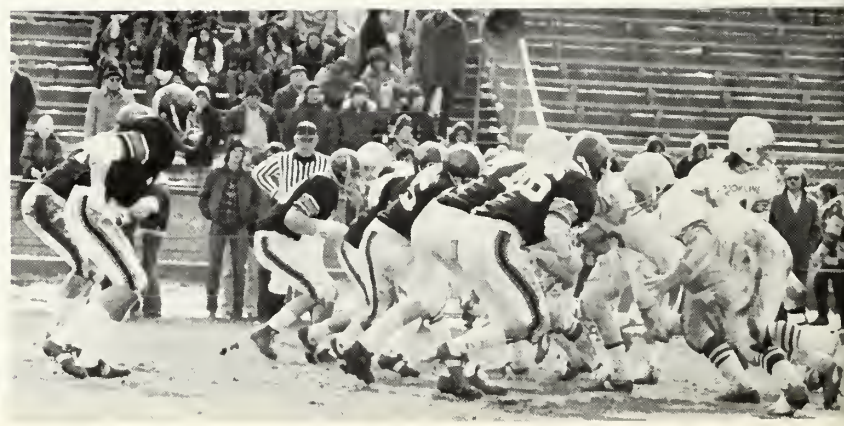

In the final analysis, the team's basic problem over the course of the season was a lack of movement by the offensive unit. The offense was continually stifled putting tremendous pressure on the defense, which nevertheless did a fine job.

So the team ended the season with a less than pleasing 5-5 record. But how could anyone knock a team that went out and played its heart out week after week? How could anyone find fault with determined athletes like Dick Doolin, Bob Kinsslla, Peter Toyias, Dana Foley, and a host of others? How could anyone put down a defensive unit, led by Steve Dibenedetto, Bobby Meek, and Gary Tutungian, that strived day after day to reach a perfection that could not be reached?

No, this season was not a disaster. It was a season in which each athlete grew as a part of a team that never reached the high plateau of its own expectations.

SOCCER

Although the last few years have been turbulent and full of change, one thing has remained stable — the success of the Newton High School soccer program. This year's team, continuing in a dominant tradition, overwhelmed opponents, rolling to a 16-1-1 regular season record. They then battled to victory in the first three rounds of the Eastern Mass. tournament, only to be stopped by a heartbreaking defeat in the semi-finals.

From the start of the first double session in late August, the team had one goal in mind, a sixth consecutive Suburban league championship for Newton High School. This goal seemed highly unlikely when, despite hard preparation headed by coaches Mike Buzzi and Bernie Flanagan, the team lost every pre-season scrimmage.

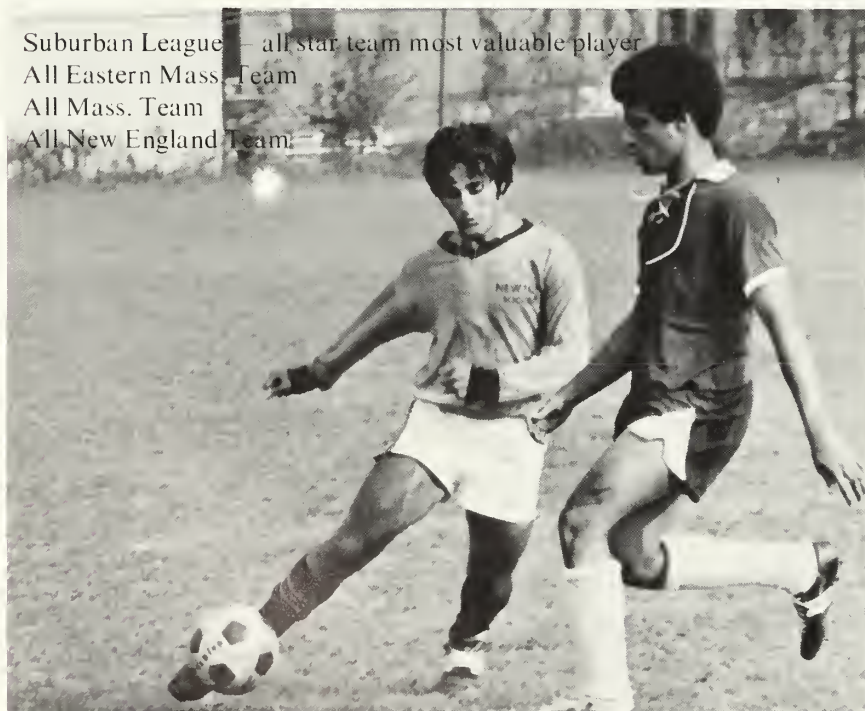

The start of the season was a different story as Newton opened with easy wins over Rindge Tech and Weymouth South. A narrow victory over Cambridge and a tie with Brockton brought the Tigers back to earth. Wins over Weymouth North and Brookline sent Newton into a showdown with undefeated North Quincy.

The game started off with North Quincy scoring two quick goals, taking advantage of a home field closer in size to a basketball court. The rest of the game was total frustration for Newton as they swarmed all over North Quincy, only scoring once and losing the game 2-1.

The North Quincy loss sent the Tigers into a victory streak lasting 14 games and six weeks. During this string of victories the Tigers outscored opponents 41-10.

Included in the victories were tough wins over a "rowdy" Cambridge Latin team 1-0, and a 3-1 win over Brockton in which seven players were ejected. A 2-1 revenge victory over North Quincy virtually clinched the Suburban League championship for Newton. A final win over a stubborn Quincy team 3-2 gave Newton a 16-1-1 regular season record and sent them into the Eastern Mass. tournament as one of the top seeds.

The team was led all year by tri-captain Joe Moussalli who set a Tiger scoring record. Other seniors who contributed greatly were tri-captains Matt Berry and Barry Silverstein, Sami Fam, Alan Friedman, Greg Buck, Peter Hite, and goalie Rick O'Neil.

SUBURBAN LEAGUE CHAMPS

Newton entered the tournament against a Lynn Classical team unable to compete with the Tigers. Joe Mousalli's three first half goals paced a 4-1 Newton win. Newton then met a tough Braintree team on a rain soaked Concord field. A Franco Tramontozzi goal sent the team into the quarter-finals with a 1-0 victory.

The quarterfinal game against Boston English at B.U. will not be forgotten by anyone who witnessed it for quite some time. The two teams battled through regulation time, overtime, and sudden death overtime in a scoreless tie. Rick Olin kept Newton alive several times with great goaltending. The game was decided on a new penalty shots tie-breaker rule. The crowd was delirious as players from both teams matched penalty shots until a Boston English miss after a Matt Berry goal sent the Tigers into the semi-finals with a 7-6 win.

The semi-final game against New Bedford was a simple case of frustration for Newton. After falling behind 1-0 early in the game the Tigers appeared to have tied the game on a Joe Moussalli goal but the goal was not allowed. A 2-0 New Bedford win sent Newton High School's '74 soccer team off the field for the final time.

Despite having failed in their ultimate goal, (a state soccer championship for Newton High School), the team can hold their heads high knowing they produced the most successful team yet in a most successful Newton High Soccer program.

Long distance running is a lonely sport as anyone who has read Alan Sillitoe's classic short story will be quick to tell you. New Newton High cross-country team has taken steps to reduce that loneliness, though, defeating opponents with strong team efforts.

This year's team was not blessed with the superstar talent that many of its opponents possessed. But, as coach John Connolly commented, "Our great depth enabled us to beat teams with a superstar." With that depth, which was personified by over by over fifteen competitive racers, the Tigers compiled a 7-2 record.

After many hours and miles of grueling workouts, the team opened the season with disappointing losses to strong Brockton and Waltham clubs. The Tiger runners bounced back, however, winning seven consecutive meets to finish the season with the third best record in the Suburban League.

The teams strongest runners — Tom Hightower, co-captains Jon Black and Owen Kupferschmid, and sophomore Duncan Scott — more than compensated for the lack of a super-runner. Supported by other fine runners such as Mike White, John Carleo, and Howie Pierce, they produced enough high finishes to account for the team's successful record.

In years to come, the Tiger cross-country teams may establish a tradition of winning by the devotion of the entire team, rather than by individual efforts. If so, it could bring about the end of the use of the "loneliness" cliché in cross-country articles.

After their second year of competition, the Newton North High School Girl's Swim team showed the affects of one more year of experience and development by coming out with a winning record.

Led by captains Sue McHale and Sue Gentile, the team boosted up their last year's record of 2 and 8 to a 6 and 3 record. Although the season started out slowly, the team picked up the pace losing only three tough meets to Brookline, Brockton and Medford. Some of the outstanding swimmers of this year's team were Mary Mulvaney, Patty Higgins, Beth Ryan, and diver Rose Castignino.

If the enthusiasm of the girl's continues to increase, the team will continue to see rapid growth and improvement.

This year, the Tiger volleyball team had its best season since volleyball became a varsity sport at Newton High. Amidst tough competition from rivals such as Brockton, Waltham, and Brookline, the team emerged with an 8-4 record and third place in the Suburban League.

The Tigers were led by the consistent setting of co-captain Julie Deligiannides, and were continually sparked by the spiking of co-captain Linda Manning and Kathy Fox. The tremendous cooperation between coach Jay Cradle and the entire team resulted in a season that could be considered nothing other than a great success. In the words of coach Cradle, "We were the best."

FIELD HOCKEY

It's fun, fast and exciting. But one thing is lacking, support. Most sports need an enthusiastic crowd to cheer them on to victory. But the girls varsity Field hockey team ended their season undefeated with a superb 5-0-3 record, which gave them their second Suburban League Field Hockey championship. This enabled them to qualify for the District Tournament.

The leadership of Co-Captains Debbie Blakely and Karen O'Brien and senior Laura Rice helped put together a winning season. They also had two devoted coaches, head coach Miss Judith Davidson and assistant coach Miss Getrost, who gave their time and energy which produced a very exciting and memorable season.

The high point of the season was a must game against Weymouth South that had to be won in order to qualify for the tournament. They did win 2-0 in a game that was totally dominated by Newton. The girls then entered the playoffs against Franklin; but lost 1-0 in a game that was "played just beautifully" said head coach Miss Judith Davidson. Although they lost the playoff game, the girls learned what a team sport is all about and that winning and losing is secondary. Congratulations coaches and team for an outstanding season.

For a Newton North basketball team to end up with a 6-16 record is somewhat of a disaster. But it is said that injuries and bad breaks can make the sweetest teams go sour.

The North team was not one of the sweetest but they did have potential. The team opened the season losing a tough one to a tourney bound Lexington team. With top guard Jack Ryan and Dana Foley out with ankle injuries, the Tigers lost five straight before notching their first victory against Cambridge Latin. In the second half of the season, the Tigers came alive. Playing good ball and led by all-star Jon Williams and senior Steve Grant, they notched five wins — three over teams they had previously lost to. Probably the most heartbreaking loss of the season came against Rindge Tech who beat the Tigers with a last second shot.

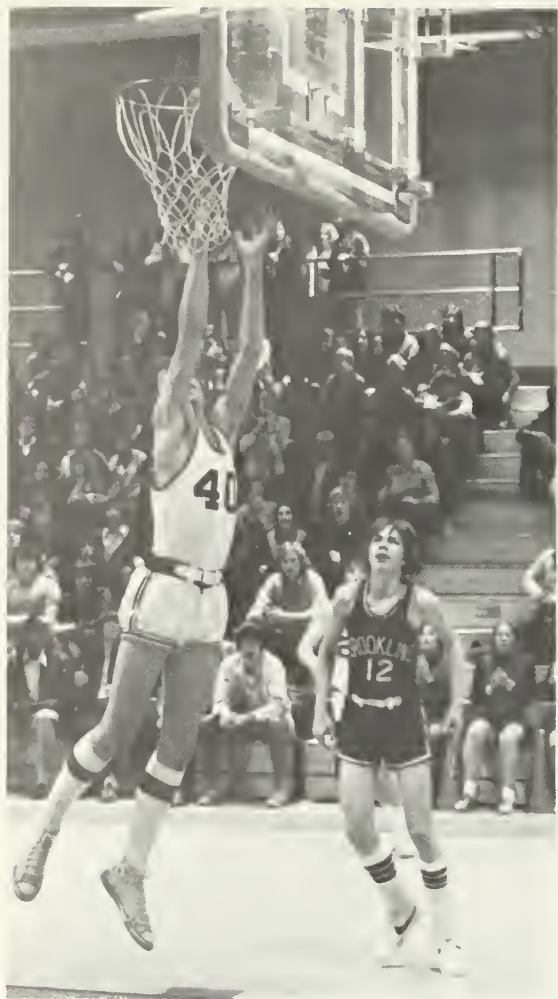

Basically the team's trouble was inconsistency. The players would work hard and never quit but errant passes and bad shots would bring them down in defeat. A very bright spot in the season was the development of sophomore Tom Morog who looks like a fine prospect for the future as does junior Jon Williams, one of the leading scorers in the Suburban league. Next year's team will surely miss the leadership and ability of co-captain Bob Kinsella, Jack Ryan, Dave Brilliant, and Steve Grant.

You really can't say much about a team with a losing record such as Newton's. As coach Jerry Phillips put it, "We had a team with kids who worked hard and never quit, but injuries and bad breaks got us off to a slow start and we could never fully get back."

The Newton North girls basketball team had the honor of finishing with a better record than the boys with a 9-8 season mark.

The team, led by Helen Fuchs, Debbie Blakely, Kathy Fox, and Sue Kreider, played well in the tough Suburban league, well enough to finish in fourth place.

Coach Debbie Getrost commented: "The team was strong and a few more breaks would have turned some games around." The team has five members returning and should look good next year.

Each year, it seems, the boys gymnastics team starts the season with a purpose of gaining recognition. The word, gymnastics, at Newton North has become synonymous with the highly successful girls gymnastic team. Well let it be known there is a boys gymnastic team at Newton High. Although the team has not attained levels of a state championship team, it has worked just as hard as the girls.

This years team, again coached by George Jessup, wound up with a record of seven wins and five losses, to finish fourth in the Suburban League. The team was led all season long by senior co-captain Mark Dibenidetti who finished his Newton High gymnastic career by taking a first place all-around in the league championship.

Other seniors who contributed greatly were co-captain Peter Clancy, Randy Cohen, Charlie Gentile, and David Schindler. A promising group of juniors and sophomores, such as Clark Texeira and John Femano, have high hopes for successful years in the future.

The Girl's Gymnastics Team started the year with a new coach Fran Piccariello and a new attitude. Those two factors instilled a team concept that guided them to a successful 5-2 record. This attitude combined with the leadership of co-captains Julie Myers and Kathy Magraw got the Tigers off to a fine start.

The team won their first five meets by convincing scores over Waltham, Weymouth North and South, Quincy and North Quincy. However the ending was not so sweet, losing to Brookline and Brocton, two of the stronger teams in the league.

In the Suburban league Championship meet, Julie Myers placed first on beam and floor exercises. Julie also placed second on bars, and third on vault. These wins gave her first all around. Junior Kathy Magraw placed second on the floor exercise which enabled the team to come in second in this meet.

Consistent performance throughout the year from Gail Blauer, Kim Threadgold and Susan Green helped produce a victorious year.

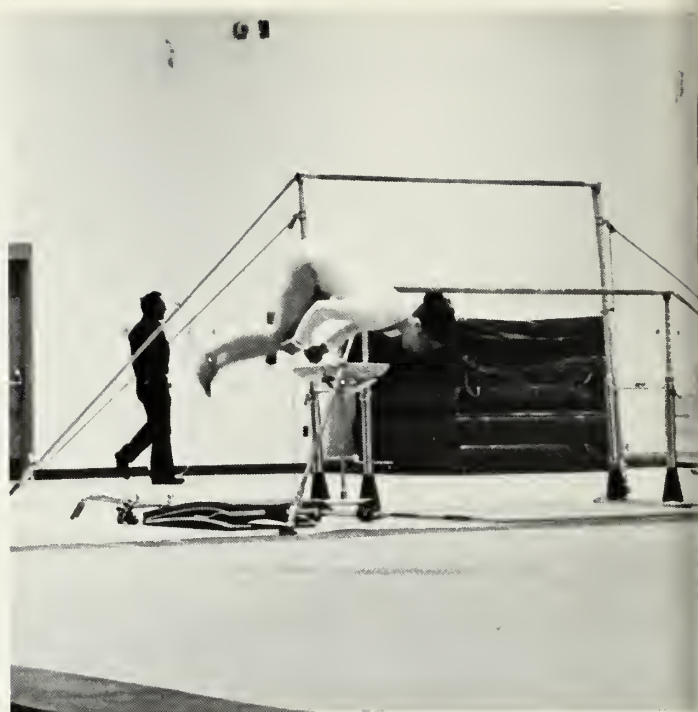

The gymnastic team has long upheld excellence and next year they should continue on those lines.

WRESTLING

There are three basic ingredients in good wrestling: knowledge of the sport, desire, and great athletic ability.

Newton North's wrestling squad can be extremely proud of their accomplishments for the 74-75 season. The team was not stacked with veteran wrestlers nor with super athletes but extreme desire and team unity brought the Newton Tigers a season of tremendous satisfaction.

Their record of 8 wins and 7 losses is most respectful considering their highly competitive schedule. Wins over Weymouth North, Weston, and Quincy, were typical of the season the Tigers had. Desire was the #1 contributing factor to the defeat of those three very talented teams.

Special recognition to co-captain Anthony Pellegrini, who was the sectional champion and placed fourth in the state meet at Brockton. Pellegrini exemplifies the Newton Wrestler of "75" as this was only his second season in competitive wrestling. "Fatty's" desire was truly his most powerful weapon against his opponent.

Co-captain Bruce McNulty was the outstanding wrestler for the first half of the season until a knee injury forced him out of action. Mike Annesi wrestled extremely well and qualified for the State tournament due to his strong showing in the sectional meet held at N.N.H.S.

Coach Pat Coleman described his wrestlers as, "a team with tremendous discipline, extremely enthusiastic, and an absolute delight to coach." Prospects for the next year look good, if the '76 wrestlers can follow the strong precedent of our '75 Tigers.

By anyones standards, a record of three wins, fourteen losses and one tie over the course of an eighteen game season is a disaster. This years Newton North High School hockey team was simply that, a disaster, as any team member will quickly admit.

The only wins came twice against a winless Rindge Tech team and over North Quincy. The tie came against Cambridge Latin. What made it so disappointing to players and fans was that last years team came on so strong at the end of the season and prospects looked good. The team got off to a slow start and was unable to gain momentum as the season progressed. Multiple "bone" injuries hampered the team all season long.

There were some bright spots on Coach Crowley's Tiger hockey team. Senior center Bob Karem had a hat trick in a 10-0 whitewash over Rindge Tech. Senior John Carey also compiled a hat trick in another game. Right wing Dave Soloman played tough all year long. The defense was backboned by three year varsity goalie Joe Steele and junior Ken Haggstrom. The defensemen were backboned by hard hitting junior Rick Cavanaugh, seniors Chris Terranova, Scott Mertens and Tom Gilley.

Although this year was not a banner year for Newton High School hockey, hopes remain high for improvement next year.

Pride and success do not always go hand in hand, but together they create an outstanding combination. Fortunately this year the Newton North Track team had both, and although they fell shy of winning a Suburban league title, not a member of the team had anything to feel ashamed of, for they gave it all they had.

Finishing in a tie with Weymouth South for second place behind Rindge Tech, the Tigers can only be optimistic about their future as their coaches, Lamoine Boyle, Fred Yaitanes, and Bob Malone all agree "The future looks good".

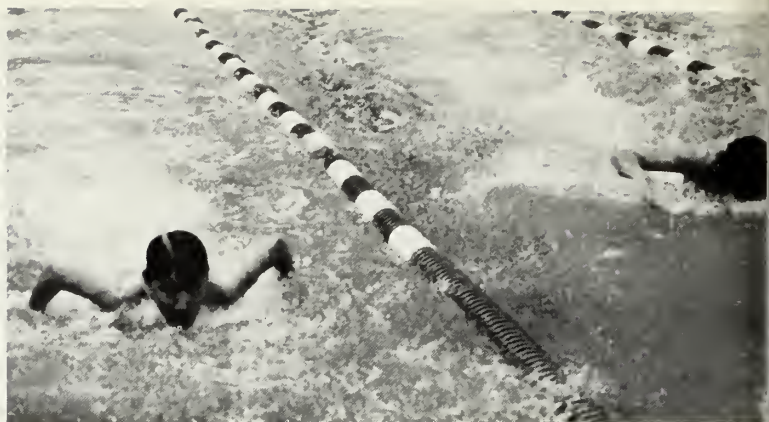

With this year's captain Bob Meek injured after the fourth meet of the season, things looked bleak for the tigers. But the team responded by winning their next three meets, only to fall to Suburban League Champs Rindge Tech, 46-40, in a meet featuring many outstanding performances. The Tigers finished their season with an impressive 7-1-1 record.

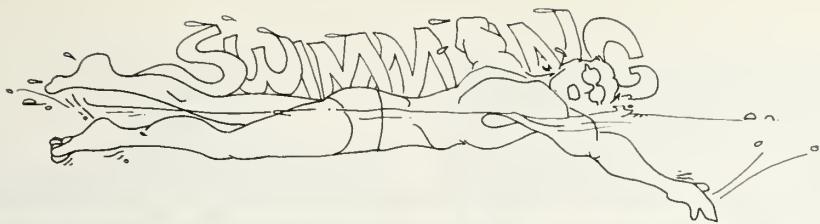

Many proved that record not to be a fluke. The distance events were led with young talent. Sophomores Duncan Scott and Richard Schilder were Newton's top two milers. Senior Tom Hightower and Sophomore Howard Pierce were excellent milers for Newton. The Tigers were tough in the middle distances as Seniors Alan Yun and Tony Morales ran consistently well in the 1000, as did Ken Tocci and Richard Raum, in the 600. The short distances were also strong as Captain Bob Meek and Sophomore Kwek Randall were among the leagues best. Seniors Alan Shocket and Hugh and Jeff Caplan ran well for the tigers in the dash. In the hurdles Senior Jamie Connolly tied a Suburban league record. Right behind him were juniors Rich Jaffe and Joe DeLorenzo (next years captains), who also ran well for the Tigers in this event.

Newton was equally strong in the field events. They possessed four top shot putters in seniors John and Tom Cardillo, Pete Saravis and Rich Sall, and two consistant high jumpers in John Ricker and Kevin Hinchey. And "to boot", the Tigers had the second best relay team in the league comprised of Bob Meek, Kwek Randall, Jamie Connolly and "the flying Tiger" Ken Tocci.

For the first time, the Tigers had a girls relay team which included Cindy Hines, Moni Scott, Kim Barnes and Miriam Santi.

The team will be losing alot of talent next year as the bulk of the varsity was made up of seniors. But, the Tigers still intend to be tough as many good prospects will be returning next year.

Swimming is unlike any other sport in the high school. In no other team sport is individual performance so emphasized and noticeable to the spectator. There is no room for error for a swimmer. If he makes a mistake, everyone sees it.

With all this in mind, the Newton swimmers were optimistic and confident as they prepared for a dual Medford meet at home. The meet was a grueling one but the Tigers dropped it 87-85. It was seesaw from there and at the midpoint of the season, their record stood at 2-4. It was all uphill from there.

The Tigers were led by co-captains Scott Pohlman and Ed Devine, and other outstanding performers such as John Volante in the 200 yd. freestyle, Paul Syphers in the 200 medley, Dave Rosenthal in the 100 yd. backstroke, sophomore Bill Zani in the 100 yd. breaststroke, and an outstanding 400 yd. relay team.

The swimmers proceeded to win six in a row and close out the season with a fine 8-4 record. This is an excellent record for a team that has been in existence only two years and next years team will look to improve on it.

The 1974-75 season was the debut season for the Newton North ski team. Surprisingly for their first year out, the team did very well, placing fifth in their league. The league was composed of 8 teams, that included Waltham, Westwood, Wellesly, Newton South, Franklin, and Walpole. The team practiced and raced on Prospect Hill in Waltham, which, although not big, provided racing excitement.

The team was led by co-captains Fred Cooper and Greg Buck who did an excellent job organizing the team without school funding. Coach Stuart Rist made his coaching debut and also did a fine job.

The team is coed team and is a young one. Sophomores Steve Brilliant and super skier Shawn Whalen posted excellent times as did Josh Ezrin and Dick Thomas. The girls were led by Beth Ryan, Kim Guiney, Nancy Levin, Maurine Culbertson, and Jennifer Brilliant who are outstanding skiers and did very well against the opposition. Coach Rist commented that the team did very well despite poor ski conditions and should be excellent next year.

EVENTS

CHARLIE BROWN

"There is no team, like the best team, which is our team, right here: We will show you, we're the best team, in the very little league this year. And in no time we'll be big time, like the big league baseball stars, 'cause all we have to do is win just one more game and the championship is ours."

"I'm conducting a survey to enable me to know myself better. On a scale of zero to one hundred, where would you rate me with regards to crabbiness?"

"You're a Good Man Charlie Brown," Newton' High's second student directed, student produced musical left everyone a little bit nostalgic for those "good old days," when life really was writing 100 word essays on Peter Rabbit, and dreaming about pretty girls during lunch recess.

All the whimsical charm of the Peanuts gang was brought to life by the truly talented cast. Bob Stern, as the luckless Charlie Brown, was perfectly complemented by the rest of the cast — Liz Robertson's Lucy, Aldo Fabrizi's Snoopy, Jay Foley's Schroeder, Frank Aronson's blanket-loving Linus, and Sue Kaufman's Patty. Under the fine direction of Neil Goldberg and Bob Stern, all combined to transform the play into a living fantasy.

As the audience filed out, it was apparent that the production had left everyone in a little happier state of mind with which to face the world outside.

GIGI

There are certain inevitabilities in this world. One of these inevitabilities is that, come December, there will be an outstanding musical production in the Newton High auditorium.

This December was no exception, as the music department staged a heart-warming presentation of Gigi. The show featured Aldo Fabrizi and Tamara Hurwitz alternating nights with Richard Tannenbaum and Laura Hastings in the lead roles. They were ably supported by Frank Aronson, Liz Robertson, Marjory Appel, and a host of others. In all, there were over one hundred people connected with the show, and they all worked together to create four evenings of delightful entertainment.

Of course, the dancing was phenomenal

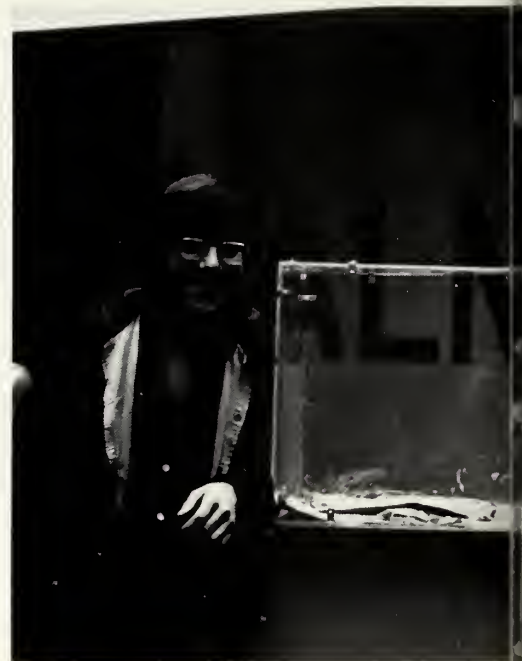

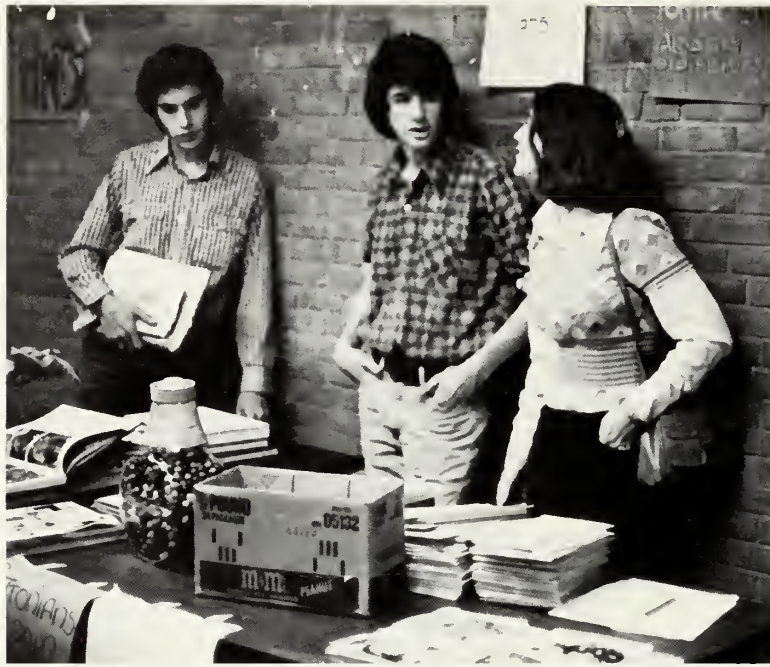

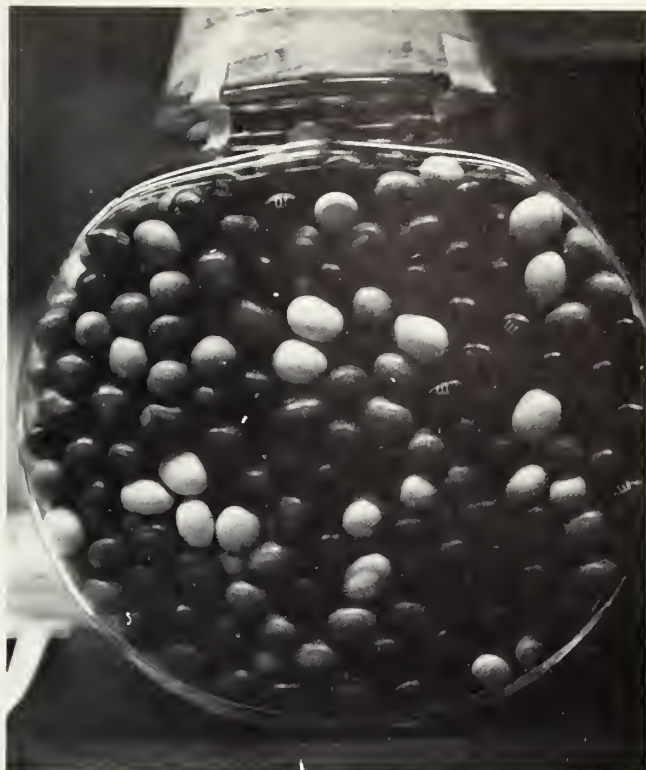

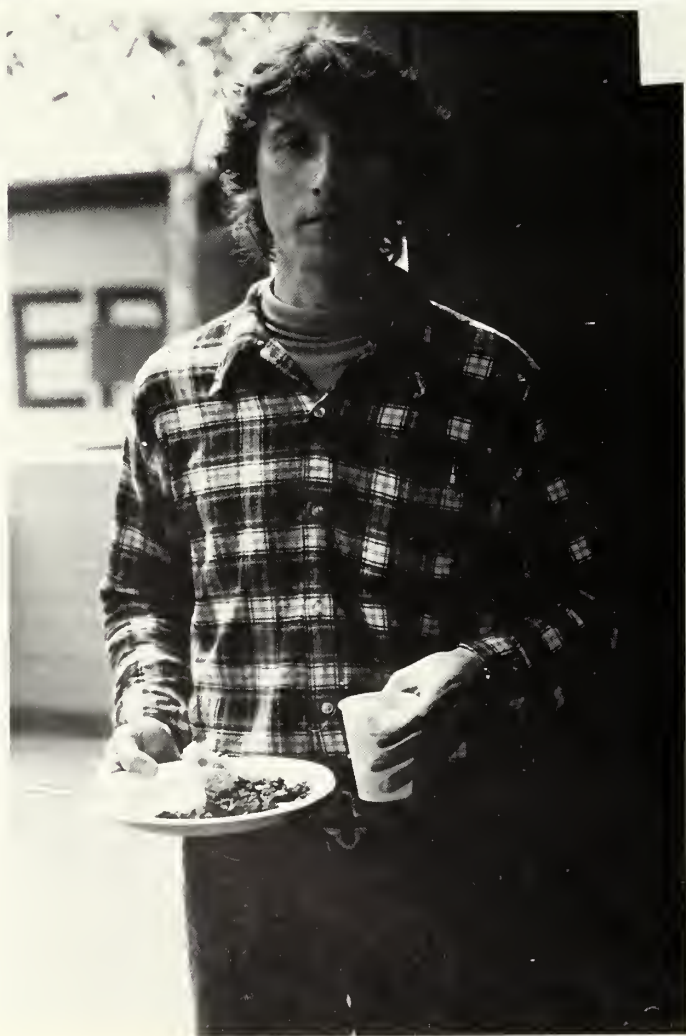

More than the words and music, it was the emotion that touched the audience. There was more than a play up on the stage; there was the end product of many painful months of stretching and contracting to fit the roles. And on those four consecutive December nights the growing pains paid off: the play fit the players like a perfectly tailored glove.

The fingers have all slipped out of that glove now, but the warmth it gave lingers on. And the audience will remember the beauty of that perfect fit, long after the programs with the words and music have been lost.

EXPO — MAIN ST.

Expo; slang for exposition: 1) A setting forth of a purpose or meaning. 2) A public exhibition or show. 3) The art of presenting a subject in detail apart from criticism or argument.

As the day designated for Expo neared, one could sense that once again something special was about to take place within the school. Then finally one day in late fall, Expo Main Street 2 came to pass and its' reality far exceeded everyones expectations. As one walked down Main Street, they could see the culmination of many weeks of careful planning and the long hours of actual preparation that resulted in an Expo which fulfilled all of the above requirements. It was not only the members of the school (administration, faculty an of course the students) who helped make Expo such a success but also the many members of the surrounding community who came to share in the fun.

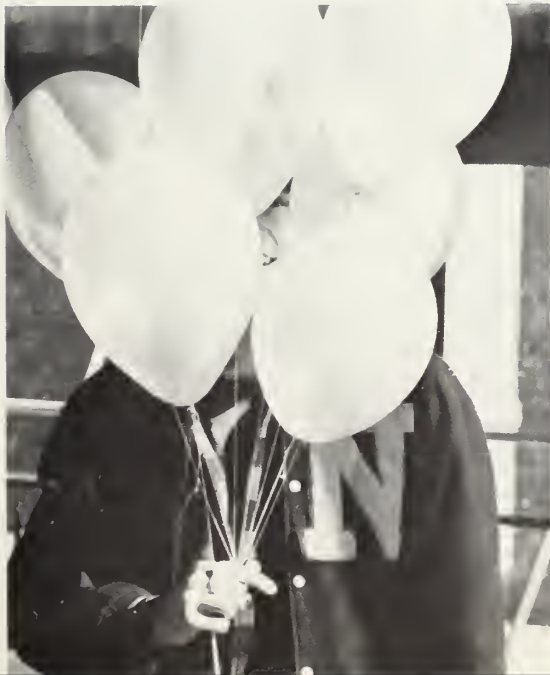

Whether one was concocting crepes, running contests, participating in the contests, selling (or buying) at any of the countless displays, or just eating and having fun, all agreed that at least for this one day there was a feeling of oneness.

"Oneness does not mean sameness, it means unity in diversity."

SENIOR BREAKFAST

HANG-OUTS

One way to estimate the number of different hangouts in Newton North High School is to add the number of exits to the number of tables in the library, and add that sum to the total number of square feet on Main Street. The quantity of different hangouts is not as important, however, as the fact that they all exist.

At first view, the great masses of students hanging out would tend to indicate that there is something lacking in our school. A strong argument in support of this view could be developed very easily. One could claim that the sole purpose of high school is to provide students with an education. It would follow that when students are hanging out in hallways instead of learning in classrooms the school must be failing in its purpose to some extent.

There is a major fallacy in this argument, though, because a complete education consists of more than classrooms and textbooks. If a student is to be prepared for adult life he must also learn to relate to other people. As long as there are places where students can socialize, the school will be providing an opportunity for students to fulfill that part of their education.

Of course, it is true that there are also negative aspects of the hangouts. The prime example is the divisiveness they create in the school. There is no doubt that while hanging out brings individuals closer it tends to separate groups. It is not often that the same person is found first at the Elm Road entrance and then in the library during two consecutive free blocks.

But the high school itself cannot be found at fault for problems such as this, because they are true of American society as a whole. A stock brokerage firm and a pencil factory may be located next door to each other, but as a general rule the employees will not mix socially. In this respect, our high school is a microcosmic representation of the outside world. Since hangouts are an intricate part of that microcosm, they are also an important part of high school life.

Living in Newton showed me how ignorant people can be about sports. Imagine the idiosy of picking the Celtics over the Knicks in '72. The choke of the Red Sox in 1974 showed this area's true sporting fiber. And now there's talk of the Paysys and the super bowl. Bean town you're bush league.

God made mud. God got lonesome.
So God said to some of the mud,
"Sit up!" "See all I've made," said
God "the hills, the sea, the sky, the stars" And I was some of the mud that got to sit up and look around.
Lucky me, lucky mud.

Most people don't quite realize how much time and effort is necessary to produce a yearbook. Indeed, a lot of credit must go to the editors and staffs for their time, but nothing can ever be done effectively on a yearbook without the time and assistance of the advisor.

For the past fifteen years, Armando Rossi has been the advisor to the Newtonian. Mr. Rossi has worked hard on all of his books, often receiving late night calls concerning problems which must be handled immediately. Obviously his constant work and encouragement have paid off as the Newtonian continues to be a first class publication.

Mr. Rossi has now decided to step down from his long held position as advisor. He hopes that new blood will generate some new ideas.

To next year's advisor: — GOOD LUCK! You have a hard job to tackle and tough shoes to fill.

To Mr. Rossi: — thanks, we couldn't have done it without you.

THE UP AND UP

The view from the bar expanded for miles. The lights of the city dotted the sky like the dots in a child's coloring book waiting to be connected. The Charles River stretched lazily below, winding its way between the buildings. She sat at the bar, watching lights flick on and off, changing the picture formed in the sky. She raised the glass to her lips and sipped the remains of the whiskey sour, the ice clicking against her teeth.

Leaning against the bar for support, she struggled to her feet. For a few minutes she tottered, her head spinning. "How many did I drink? One? Two? No wait, I had more! I think I'd better get out of here." Her eyes were half open, heavy from the whiskey.

She pushed her way through the crowd. As she reached the elevator, the doors opened and a sign caught her eye. She mumbled to herself "the UP and UP. The name sure fits, exactly where my head is going." She stumbled into the elevator, bumping into a body that was leaving. She glanced up briefly into his face. Strange green eyes, a soft smile, brushed blond hair. "Hmmm nice" she thought. "Maybe, I should stay. No, I think I'd better go."

The doors closed and the elevator slowly journeyed down to the ground floor. "Oh this isn't too good for my insides." She relaxed against the glass window, watching the cars below get closer and closer. Then it stopped.

A crowd of laughing couples poured into the elevator. Shaken by the sudden onrush of noise, she groped and stumbled out of the elevator.

It was drizzling outside. The cold rain splattered against her eyes. The lights she had seen from above, now surrounded her. She glanced around nervously, trying to focus on people and lights. On the crowded sidewalk people bumped against her, pushing toward their own destinations. The jostling of the crowd thrust her to the edge of the road. Cars sped by, their headlights blinding her.

She walked off the curb and into the street. She checked quickly for any policeman who might stop her, then turned toward the traffic. She extended her arm and stuck her thumb out. Slowly, she walked backwards. Occasionally she would trip over a hole in the pavement or a can thrown lazily to the gutter.

She continued trudging, as the passing cars splashed her from the puddles in the street. The rain continued to fall. The drops on her hair reflected the lights.

She was tired. She leaned against a parking meter for support. Her hand rose and wiped the wet hair from her face. Then slowly she resumed her position. A car slowed and stopped a few feet in front of her. The front door opened and a voice called to her, "Get in, before you're soaked." She ran to the car, her feet heavy and slow. As she reached it, she glanced in and asked, "Where are you going?" The front passenger replied, "I don't know, just get in."

She could see three other people aside from the one who had just spoken to her. She hesitated for a moment, then shrugged her shoulders. "What the hell! Nothing to lose!", and settled into the front seat.

"Where are you coming from?" A dark haired boy in the back seat asked.

"The UP and UP."

"Fancy place, huh?"

"Yeah I guess you could say that."

Then the driver spoke. "Hi Lisa."

Her heart jumped. The voice was so familiar. Scenes of cold winter nights flooded her mind. They were memories dug up from their hidden place in her past. Slowly she leaned forward to look at his face. She hesitated, a sticky sort of fear stuck in her throat.

"Hi Paul. Long time no see." A nervous laugh escaped her.

"Yeah, I guess you could say that."

Suddenly he pulled the car over to the curb and threw it into park.

"Tim, you drive."

"Yeah, sure, okay," and his eyes looked at her, wondering.

They both climbed out of the car. Paul slid in first, sitting very close to her. He put his hand to her cheek, and brushed it gently.

"So Lisa, how've you been?" And he smiled so softly.

Marin Collins

THE PARTY

Each person was a musical note as the page filled and formed a symphony of discord and rarest harmony.

Composing lists of the dead
while her friends danced and laughed and body-loved.

Cold and empty house
the stereo could not warm her nor drawing nor thoughts of old lovers.
She tried and saw a blond body before her until it burst and flattened and floated towards the south.

Please come please come at the party they danced
She covered her ears with shaking hands
but they thought only of parking garages red lights and the time he kissed her so hard
She had to laugh.

It was midnight
he certainly gone
no longer summer
when he was tanned and she cooling brown in shorts . . .
The radiator burned her while they unknowingly danced.

Amy Shoolman

ON CRUISING AND '69 CAMARO'S

Undoubtedly, cruising is as much a part of High School life as cafeteria lunches. It is debatable, though, as to just how important cars are to High School students. Some people will say that life begins at 16 1/2, with the issuing of a driver's license. This is an exaggeration, of course; the truth is that anyone who is not living by 16 1/2 will not find life in a four-speed transmission.

On the other hand, cruising cannot be written off as just a way of killing time which could be killed in dozens of other ways. Cruising is more than going from here to there; it is even more than going from here, around and around and around, and back to here again. It is actually the forging of a link between a person and a car. This link should not be considered evidence to dismiss cars as mere phallic symbols, however. It is actually composed of every person who has ever been in the car. As the link is forged, acquaintances are molded into friends, and friend into close friends.

Many people doubt the value of a relationship which is formed around an automobile. In truth, the relationship is very difficult to evaluate: anyone who cruises is a part of the link which binds him to the car, and therefore cannot look at that link objectively.

Recently, a friend said to me, "I can't understand what you see in that car." I said, "Neither do I," and it was a good answer. When my vision has cleared enough to let me see exactly what there is in that car, then it will be time for me to find a new way to get from here to there.
